To whom it Concerns

I am writing this letter to acknowledge the impact of Noweyung's involvement for our organization in practical support and inspirational support.

The project has given our staff member's opportunities to be involved in the following:

- Using a Moodle and starting to create online blended delivery which is suited to our learners with disabilities. It has been most useful to be able to be trained and supported to look at examples of online learning and also be supported to develop some examples of what we could use in the future.
- Several Noweyung staff have visited the TELC in Gippsland TAFE where we have experienced what learning in that context could be like. This involved tours of the equipment then involvement in examples of practice within a classroom situation. This was informative and inspirational.
- Because of our commitment to an online presence we have assigned an employee the responsibility leading the development of this blended delivery. We have done this because we need to take on the increased expectations of learners coming to our service but also present creative options that are particularly suited to the people with disabilities we support.
- Noweyung has participated in the formation of an alliance- Gippsland East Learn Local Alliance and GELLA is very interested in building on the capacity to sharing delivery that would use TELC technology.

I am extremely grateful to have had these opportunities for Noweyung employees as they have provided us with technical assistance and clarified how envisage future delivery

Yours Sincerely
